ICC NFSA Code Development Committee Information

Early in March, the International Code Council (ICC) released the monograph for the upcoming code hearings on the 2021 IRC. To the pleasant surprise of residential fire sprinkler proponents, there are NO proposals to R313, meaning, no one is challenging the residential sprinkler requirement in the 2021 IRC. This is great news!

Just a few notes held over from the March report and the NFSA Code Development Team lead by Director of Code Development Jeff Hugo and some links for your use!

Regarding ITM-Reporting Services, do you submit your ITM inspection reports online? If so, chances are it is going through an ITM reporting service employed through a jurisdiction. The NFSA is establishing a map of ITM-reporting services across the US and we are in the process of identifying these areas. Please help us and fill out this form: https://members.nfsa.org/general/custom.asp?page=ITM\_Reporting

Regarding the tracking of codes, has the code changed in the areas you work, design, or inspect in? The NFSA tracks when codes are updated, as well as several referenced standards, like NFPA 13 and NFPA 25. Please help us update our records by filling out this one-minute form: https://members.nfsa.org/page/ITM\_Code\_Tracker
